New Zealand Certificate in Security (Intermediate) Level 4

Security professionals work in a fast paced and potentially high-risk environment. Security staff and the people they are protecting need assurance that the person leading the team is a confident and reliable leader.

ServiceIQ's New Zealand Certificate in Security Level 4 gives you the knowledge to be the leader your team can have confidence in.

Programme features – Skills for Success

This programme helps security professionals develop strong communication skills essential to leading a great team. They will also gain confidence in:

- Applying knowledge and skills to implement and maintain operational systems and risk management processes to ensure effective and lawful practices in a security work context.
- Leading and managing operational security teams, while providing support to enhance their performance in a security workplace.
- Implementing and maintaining the health and safety requirements for self and others while carrying out security work.
- Applying knowledge of New Zealand legislation relevant to leading the response to incidents in a security work context.
